

The birth of Tsukiusagi-jirushi brand by Fujii Co., Ltd dates back to 1926. Tsukiusagi-jirushi played a key role in spreading enamel products and to this day each product is hand made by skilled craftsmen in Japan. The long, shapely spout of the Tsukiusagi pot is carefully designed to deliver the perfect rate of hot water flow. A slow, controlled pour is an essential part of the pour over coffee making process. The Slim Pot was designed by Komin Yamada and has been in production for more than 40 years since its launch in 1980.

The Tsuki Usagi kettle, cherished for its exceptional quality since the Taisho era, features a beautiful, natural design. Its craftsmanship is evident in the carefully crafted enamel, accentuated by a wooden handle and knob. With its wide base, the kettle heats water quickly, while the narrow spout allows for precise and controlled pouring.
